AN IMMATERIAL ABSENCE.

So far as the public can observe, Chief Pitt's absence has made no difference in the police department except about 245 pounds in its gross weight. Ignoring the provisions of the law, he left no one man in authority as acting chief, but that will not affect the situation materially because the police have had no head since he took office, and it would be poor strategy of him to let an ordinary police sergeant take his job while he's away and show what could be done by a man who knows the business. Hempel, the next in succession, might not set the Jordan on fire if he were acting chief, but he has walked a beat long enough to know the difference between a porch-climber and a clubman coming home late—which is more discrimination than most of the force, including the chief, have shown under this administration.

Besides, Chief Pitt's absence cannot affect conditions much. The city administration has little sympathy with his policies, the department is not meant primarily for the suppression of crime, and it certainly has not been used much for the detection of criminals, so the matter of a chief's absence is immaterial.

Some of these days, though, there will be a call for a real police department, in which appointments will be made for competency and not for political reasons, and in that event not only the chief, but a good part of the present force will be able to go back to the beet fields where they belong.

DR. DUNCAN'S VIEWS.

On Sunday last The Herald commented on the action of the Butte G. A. R. in withdrawing its invitation to a pastor of that city, Dr. Duncan, to deliver a Memorial Day address, because Dr. Duncan had invited the notorious woman anarchist, Emma Goldman, to speak from his pulpit. We suggested that Dr. Duncan must be in sympathy with the wild preachments of the Goldman woman, or he would not have offered her such an opportunity. Comes now a friendly letter from William T. Brown, who knows Dr. Duncan well, protesting against our criticism. Mr. Brown says, in part:

"I have no desire to criticize the action of the G. A. R. in Butte for canceling their invitation to Mr. Duncan. They undoubtedly acted in accordance with their honest convictions. But when you intimate that Mr. Duncan sympathizes with the views of Miss Goldman you are entirely mistaken. I personally know that Mr. Duncan differs in his political and social beliefs far more widely from Miss Goldman than The Herald does. Politically Mr. Duncan stands at the opposite extreme from Miss Goldman, as she herself would be the first to admit."

The Herald can hardly understand how Dr. Duncan can differ more widely from the views of Emma Goldman than this newspaper does. And we submit that the fact that the pastor invited her to speak in his church is sufficient justification for believing that he endorses her views of government—or lack of government. According to Mr. Brown, our estimate of Dr. Duncan was entirely erroneous. Then the pastor must plead guilty to a bad mistake of judgment.

It is all very pretty to talk about giving a hearing to the other side, but there is no other side to the question of anarchy as typified by Emma Goldman. If Emma Goldman should stand up in Dr. Duncan's pulpit and advocate the assassination of President Roosevelt, and if some poor, deluded, weak-minded individual should take her advice, proceed to Washington and assassinate the president, would not Dr. Duncan be culpable? We are inclined to think he would be. There is no more excuse for a plea to hear a violent anarchist talk than there is to hear a lecture on the best method of administering poison to one's husband or one's wife or child.

The anarchy that preaches assassination by bomb or otherwise is absolutely indefensible. It has no place anywhere in this country, and it is especially out of place in a pulpit devoted to the cause of Christ. We repeat that if Dr. Duncan doesn't sympathize with the Goldman views he is innocent and ingenuous beyond human belief.

ONE GOOD BILL.

It must be said that the sixtieth congress enacted one good bill into law. This is the act providing for second homestead entries. It is brief enough to be published in full, and follows:

"Be it enacted by the senate and house of representatives of the United States of America in congress assembled, That any person who, prior to the passage of this act, has made entry under the homestead laws, but from any cause has lost, forfeited or abandoned the same, shall be entitled to the benefits of the homestead law as though such former entry had not been made, and any person applying for a second homestead under this act shall furnish the description and date of his former entry; provided, that the provisions of this act shall not apply to any person whose former entry was canceled for fraud, or who relinquished the former entry for a valuable consideration."

This act was approved Feb. 8, 1908, and little has been said about it. It is of importance in the western country because here is the public land. It will be noted that those whose former entry has been declared void because of fraud, as well as those who have relinquished an original entry for a valuable consideration, are barred from relocation, as was the case under the former act. This provision should answer satisfactorily all objections.

It has often happened that entries have been relinquished because the individuals making them found them not to be worth the cost of proving up and the time spent in that process. Those lands have gone back into the public domain. Nobody except the government, and the government only remotely, has profited thereby. Every citizen should be entitled to locate his proportion of vacant land, and he should be entitled to hold it until he has disposed of it for a valuable consideration, or until it has been proven that there was fraud in the making of it.

TAFT AND THE REAL GRANT.

Secretary Taft's unfortunate allusion to General Grant's drinking, which has caused such an uproar in Grand Army circles, recalls Lincoln's comment when complaint was made to him that Grant drank whisky. As the story goes, Lincoln's reply was that it might be well if some of the other generals got some of Grant's brand of liquor.

The truth is that much of the blame laid on Grant and attributed to his fondness for liquor had its foundation in the malice of his enemies and the jealousy of less successful and competent commanders. When Grant was caught unprepared at the first day's battle of Shiloh and his forces were nearly driven into the Tennessee river while he was on the other side at Savannah, this old story of drunkenness was originated and got credence. The Cherry family, with whom Grant was lodged at the time, have since said there was no truth in the story of his condition, but the contradiction never overtook the original lie, and it has had currency ever since, even with some historians.

Few, very few, of the military men in Grant's day were abstainers. Old Joe Hooker, who won the appellation of "Fighting Joe," was wont to attribute his one big failure in command to the fact that he refused to drink at all on the critical day of battle. However that may be, the sum total of Grant's achievements, his pre-eminence as a strategist and successful leader of men, ought to preclude any revival of the slanders against his character on the old score. He was great not only in military achievement, but in all that goes to make a man great in character; and his memory is so luminously splendid that Taft's explanation that what he said was only in eulogy hardly excuses the allusion to what is regarded as an apocryphal tale of weakness.

It has been suggested that the recent death of the educated monkey in the Central Park zoo was caused by speculation on the methods used by New Yorkers to determine what kind of animals to send to the United States senate. Our own opinion is that the poor beast died because he feared he might be dragged out to a dinner at Newport or some other society resort, the season being now at hand.

The Republican congressional campaign committee has, according to a Washington dispatch, offered a prize of $150 for an article of not to exceed 1,000 words containing the best reasons why the Republican party should be successful next November. A number of reasons can undoubtedly be advanced along this line, but none of them will be good ones.

A Chicago professor asserts that there is nothing to the theory that physical culture is causing an increase in the size of women's feet. He is probably right, as far as Chicago is concerned. For, if the ancient report be true, the Chicago woman's foot is now as large as it can be.

The country will, in a measure, regain its equilibrium within the next few days. The Utah congressional delegation has started home.

SOCIETY

A wedding of interest to Salt Lake was that of J. A. Greenwald of this city and Miss Mildred Rheinstrom of Portland. The ceremony was performed at 8:30 o'clock last evening at the Rheinstrom home, Dr. Jonah B. Wise officiating. The bride was attended by Miss Flora Fleischer, and Louis Lang was the best man. The bride was given away by her father, and only the close friends and near relatives of the two young people were in attendance. The ceremony was followed by a wedding supper, and later the young couple left for a two months' honeymoon in the east. Later they will be at home at 539 East First South street. The home was bright with Portland's favorite flowers—roses. Pink roses were used everywhere, a great canopy of them forming a bower for the bridal party. The supper table showed a central decoration of an immense heart of the same fragrant flowers, and roses and palms filled the rooms throughout the house. The bride, who is one of Portland's most beautiful girls, made a lovely picture in a Parisian gown, hand embroidered over white tulle. She carried a shower of bride's roses. Miss Fleischer's gown was of white with embroidered net, and she carried an armful of pink roses. Mrs. Rheinstrom wore a handsome gown of white satin trimmed with real lace, and Mrs. Joseph Oberdorfer of this city, sister of the groom, was dressed in a white lace princess gown.

The big event of the day is the wedding this evening of Miss Lela Stingley and Joseph J. Campbell. The ceremony takes place this evening at 8 o'clock at St. Paul's church, and will be followed by a small reception at the home of the bride's uncle, Mr. Newhouse. The bridesmaids will be the Misses Mary and Georgina Moore, cousins of the bride, and the Misses Mildred and Bess McMillan. John Clark is to be the best man.

"The Crystal Slipper" is to be repeated the latter part of the month and again for the general benefit of the Canyon Crest ranch. The dates chosen are June 25 and 26, and several new features have been introduced to add to the attractiveness of the program. The first rehearsal will be held Saturday evening at 7:30.

Yesterday was given over almost entirely to the "sweet girl graduate." Rowland Hall girls held their senior evening, the High school people filled the theatre to overflowing, and numerous other events connected with the closing of schools were recorded.

The marriage of Miss Alice Fisher and Frederic B. Davison will take place this morning at 10 o'clock at the Fisher home. The wedding will be a quiet one, the ceremony being performed by Rev. Father D. Kieley. It will be followed by a wedding breakfast to the family only.

Madame Worms and her little daughter Elise left yesterday for the coast to be away all summer. They will visit Mrs. Elmer L. San Francisco and Mrs. O. F. Seattle, both daughters of Madame Worms, and will also visit friends in Portland.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Penrose have issued invitations for a wedding reception for their daughter Lulu and Walter A. Wallace on Wednesday evening, June 10, at the residence of Mrs. John Stringham, 107 K street.

Miss Mary Dunbar, the younger daughter of Mrs. Elizabeth Dunbar, is here from Los Angeles to visit friends. Mrs. Dunbar is expected next week to spend a part of the summer.

Miss Lucile Hewitt, who has been teaching in the Alameda High school, will be home late in the week to spend the summer with her mother and brother, Mrs. Hewitt and Dr. Ned Hewitt.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Doolittle and their little daughter Dorothy have moved and are now at home at 396 East Brigham street.

Miss Kate Groo entertained the members of the Sewing club yesterday afternoon at a Kensington tea for Miss Florence Grant. The hostess was assisted by Mrs. Elwood Brown.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest A. Greenwald will entertain at cards both tonight and tomorrow night for their guests, Mrs. Robert J. Hendricks, of Salem, Ore.

Miss Leo Trent has returned from spending a week with Miss Katherine Vorse at her country home.

Mr. and Mrs. William Lamoreaux will be here today on their wedding trip, and will visit Mr. Lamoreaux's father for a short time.

Miss Stella Fabian entertained a few friends last evening at a dinner.

Mrs. Hubbard W. Reed will entertain about a score of her friends at a luncheon at the Alta club on Thursday.

Miss Jessie Home entertains this afternoon in compliment to Miss Florence Grant.

Mrs. W. T. Benson entertains the Bridge club this afternoon at her home.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Lambourne returned Sunday from a stay of several weeks in New York.

Miss Celia McFall left last evening for Seattle to visit friends for the summer.

Miss Netta Gibbon expects to leave during the week for her home in Chicago to spend the summer.

AYER'S HAIR VIGOR

USEFUL HINTS TO HOUSE-KEEPERS.

A COAT of Natural Jap-a-lac applied over old or new linoleum or oil cloth will double its life, by preserving the original coat of varnish which would otherwise soon be washed or worn off.

WEATHER BEATEN front doors are revived and beautified when coated with Jap-a-lac, and "newness follows the brush." It is best to use the color nearest that of the old finish.

WINDOW and DOOR screens should be coated with Jap-a-lac each spring, using the Brilliant Black on the wire, and the Mahogany, Oak, Cherry or Walnut on the frames. It gives them new life and the wire cloth is protected from rust.

PORCH FURNITURE should be protected and beautified each spring with Jap-a-lac. It is best to use the color of the old finish, but if you wish to change the color use Red or Green Jap-a-lac.

WICKER FURNITURE coated with Mahogany, Ox-Blood, Red, Malachite Green or Gloss White Jap-a-lac, looks better than new.

WATER PIPES, furnace fronts, radiators, hot water tanks and iron fences are preserved and beautified with the use of Jap-a-lac. Use the Gold, Aluminum, Dead Black or Brilliant Black.

PICTURE FRAMES, candelabra, gas fixtures, lamps, etc., given a coat of Gold, Aluminum or Dead Black Jap-a-lac, are renewed almost beyond belief—the Dead Black produces that beautiful wrought-iron effect.

OLD AUTOMOBILES, carriages, wagons, agricultural implements, etc., Jap-a-lac-ed with either Brilliant Black, Red, Green or Empire Blue, look 100 per cent better, and are given new life. The cost is nominal, and the work can be done by an inexperienced person.

JAP-A-LAC is a household necessity, and can be used in a hundred and one ways, from "cellar to garret," and is especially adapted for finishing old or new floors and woodwork. Ask your paint dealer.
